REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA, U.S.A., 1999 JUL 20 (NB) -- By Grant Buckler, Newsbytes. Bell Atlantic Corp.'s (NYSE:BEL) Bell Atlantic Mobile operation will use Wireless Application Protocol (WAP) to give its customers access to electronic mail and information from their cellphones and to simplify phone upgrades. Bell Atlantic will deploy Phone.com, Inc.'s (NASDAQ:PHCM) microbrowser and associated server software with Motorola Inc. (NYSE:MOT) digital phones.

The service should be commercially available early next year, Bell Atlantic Mobile spokeswoman Andrea Linskey told Newsbytes. Customers will need to buy the new Motorola phones in order to use it. Linskey said it is too early to discuss details of the company's marketing plans, such as additional monthly charges for the service.

Using Phone.com's UP.Browser, phone subscribers will be able to view specially tailored Internet and intranet content on the display screens of their phones. A spokesman for Phone.com explained that the micro-browser works with Phone.com's UP.Link server software, which delivers content using wireless markup language (WML) rather than the hypertext markup language (HTML) used for most World Wide Web content.

Bell Atlantic is at least the fourth US wireless carrier to announce plans to use Phone.com's micro-browser. Sprint PCS and Nextel have announced plans for trials in the fourth quarter. SouthernLink, a regional carrier, has also announced plans for the technology, the Phone.com spokesman told Newsbytes.

Bell Atlantic Mobile said it will be able to deliver information such as news, stock prices, weather reports, and sports reports to digital cellular phones using the system. WAP will also let the carrier download software updates to phones over the air. That will mean the carrier can provide up-to-date roaming information to ensure that when subscribers travel, their phones will use wireless networks preferred by Bell Atlantic. It will also be possible to update area code information automatically, meaning that when area codes change - as they have been doing frequently in the US in recent years - subscribers will not need to bring their phones to a dealer for reprogramming, Linskey said.

Bell Atlantic Mobile is at http://www.bam.com on the Web.

M2 PRESSWIRE-21 April 1999-GEMPLUS: Gemplus delivers the first complete mobile service solution based on SIM Toolkit and Over-The-Air technology (C) 1994-99 M2 COMMUNICATIONS LTD

RDATE:160499

* Danish operator Mobilix launches "A La Carte Inside" that allows subscribers to customize their mobile phones with the services they want

Gemenos -- Gemplus, the world's leading provider of smart-card based solutions, today announced the launch of the first mobile service worldwide that gives subscribers the control over the services they want in their mobile phones. Gemplus in partnership with Mobilix, Denmark's most advanced telecom operator, was able to launch this service thanks to Gemplus' Value Added Service solution combining a range of state-of-the-art products (GemXplore CASE, GemXplore 98 and GemMobile Remote Manager) and expertise in the fields of SIM Toolkit and Over-The-Air technology.

New Mobile Services A La Carte The "A La Carte Inside" is a new Mobilix package composed of a GemXplore 98 SIM card and a Siemens C25 handset. The SIM card contains a predefined set of menus that give access to a variety of information services (News, directory enquiries, weather, pizza, flower delivery, horoscope, cinema, jokes and drink recipes). If the subscriber wishes to change or add a new menu to his mobile phone, he simply goes to the Mobilix web site and downloads the new pack of services he wants (travel information, sports news, chat lines...).

For the first time, a subscriber can download SIM Toolkit applications after the card has been issued thanks to Gemplus' Over-The-Air gateway: GemMobile Remote Manager.

"A La Carte Inside" is a world first in its domain because subscribers now can personalize their handset according to the services they want," said Christian Ward, Handset & SIM Card Expert at Mobilix.
"Mobilix is once again making another step towards the 'Whatever, Wherever, Whenever' phenomenon."

"In the world of GSM, the SIM card has become an essential Value Added Service platform. With SIM Toolkit and Over-The-Air technology, operators now have the flexibility to create user-friendly services and manage them remotely," announced Philippe Martineau, Director Wireless Communications Marketing & Product Group at Gemplus. "Most of our customers who offer SIM based Value Added Services have reported that their churn rate has dropped drastically and that they have widened their customer base."

Value Added Service Solutions For Mobile Operators "A La Carte Inside" is based on GemXplore CASE, Gemplus' SIM Toolkit software factory. The SIM Toolkit application runs on GemXplore 98 cards and for the first time ever, a subscriber can download SIM Toolkit applications after the card has been issued thanks to Gemplus' Over-The-Air gateway: GemMobile Remote Manager.

The application that "A La Carte Inside" is based on is an example of an end-to-end solution that Gemplus can offer their customers: a comprehensive development kit for user-friendly SIM Toolkit based services, cards that can be securely updated and modified over-the-air, a complete over-the-air gateway that can remotely modify the content of SIM cards and a staff of highly qualified consultants to guide operators through the implementation of their new service.

NOTE TO EDITORS

SIM Toolkit SIM Toolkit is a set of commands that are sent from the SIM card to the handset or the network, on the handset's screen it looks like a series of menus. Subscribers don't have to remember number sequences, all they do is scroll down a menu. SIM Toolkit was adopted by the GSM industry as a standard in 1997 and over 30 SIM Toolkit applications are being launched by Gemplus customers around the world.

Over-The-Air Over-The-Air is a technology where data or SIM Toolkit applications are sent from the operator to a SIM card or a set of selected SIM cards. The information is sent via short messages (SMS). This means that the contents of a SIM card can be updated or changed without having to reissue it.

About Mobilix: Mobilix is Denmark's new, dynamic telecom company aiming at becoming the global supplier of telecommunications services to the residential and business sectors. Mobilix offers competitive products and services in mobile and fixed network telephony, data and Internet, and is working on finalizing its Danish backbone network which is the central part of its offer for fixed network telephony and data services. Mobilix A/S is 86 % owned by one of the largest telecommunications companies in the world, France Telecom, and 14 % owned by Banestyrelsen. Mobilix has almost 700 employees and will invest more than four billion in the next few years in order to develop one of the world's most modern telecommunications companies.
